Boazul Medical products

The Boazul roll-on-cuffs or the original “Löfqvist cuff” is a complete system in order to create and keep bloodless field in extremities during operations in bloodless field. The cuff is efficient, simple and safe to use and need no electricity or compressed air. The design secures an ideal pressure over the systolic pressure against the extremity within the working range of each cuff and can be sterilised.

Several surgeons with good reputation have worked with the Boazul system in many years and appreciate to continue with this. The cuffs are made of natural rubber but are completely without any risk for latex allergy.
